

ADELAIDE INSTITUTE

PO Box 3300
Adelaide 5067
Australia
Mob: 61+401692057
Email: info@adelaideinstitute.org
Web: <http://www.adelaideinstitute.org>

Online
ISSN 1440-9828

May 2010 No 500 - A

---

Captain James Cook in Cairns

Captain James Cook and that famous salute: Is it a Roman Salute?

Is it a National Socialist Salute?

Is it a Freemason Salute?

---

Hitler's oratory

An analysis of the speech patterns of Adolf Hitler, and how he became such a 'technically brilliant' orator. 3 April 2010

Maria Zijlstra: Hello! For 'Lingua Franca', I'm talking this week to J.C. (Jaap) de Jong who—among other language-related functions—lectures in modern rhetoric as well as journalism at the University of Leiden in the Netherlands. Now, Dr de Jong was recently quoted—by the journalist Erik van den Berg, writing a piece analysing the speech patterns of Adolf Hitler—as concluding that, technically, Hitler was a brilliant orator.

But how did he become so, since he's so often been described as somewhat shy and withdrawn? Not my idea of a natural speaker at all. Yet the record has it that aged 30, in 1919, having returned from the First World War—during which, despite not being a German citizen, he had fought for the country that he so admired—and still a member of the German army but then in military intelligence; he sprang up in public to speak at a political meeting in response to the proposal that the southern German region of Bavaria be ceded to Austria, something to which Adolf Hitler was greatly opposed. Right, Dr de Jong?

JC de Jong: Yeah! And Hitler stood up and he started a talk for 15 minutes against this plan. And when he at last finished, the party leader, Anton Drexler, said, 'My God, this man can talk. We can use him!' And he gave him his pamphlet, Mein Politisches Erwachen, and then he started to join the political party. Later on he tried to have many speeches, especially in the Bierstuben.

Maria Zijlstra: Perhaps we should just explain; these Bierstuben are public beer-drinking halls. Big ones, though, not little bars on little corners in little back alleys.

JC de Jong: Indeed, it's a big place where a thousand or sometimes two thousand people can drink beer and eat and, well these kinds of places, the important politicians of the day tried to visit. And I think Hitler learned it there. And what I found, [is] that he sometimes had speeches of one, one-and-a-half hours.

Maria Zijlstra: Wow!

JC de Jong: Yeah, very long! And imagine, mostly men sitting and drinking, starting at the beginning of the evening with some drinks but later on, more and more. And he started...I think this is a common misunderstanding of his speech...we know Hitler as a sort of a lunatic, as a shouter, a screamer. We have heard small parts, sound bites, of him shouting and screaming and making big gestures and, of course, this is all what he sometimes did but the strange fact was that, when I was watching them more and more, I saw that in his long speeches he started very quiet and with a fine line of humour or irony, and with a sympathetic voice. Not with the big words and big shouting rallies already.

Maria Zijlstra: So much more personally then, appealing for, maybe building a relationship or a connection, with much more subtle tones.

JC de Jong: Yes. I think that's right. He knew, as an important part of rhetoric, that making what we call Juricum benevolum parare—making the judges benevolent. You have to be sympathetic for your listeners otherwise what you will say, if you're not sympathetic to them, they won't like, they won't buy and they will stand against it. So it's important that you, in the first minutes of your speech, show yourself as a person who can have some understanding of the problems of the people, and show yourself as a person who cares about your audience and who knows what hard work is. He shows himself as a soldier of the Great War, the First World War, and as one who knows the sorrows of his peers.

And if you talk about the musical part of his speeches, then you can say that the overture is very quiet, very slow, and after a long while when he played some of his themes, then he built up a big symphony, and at the end—in the peroratio there is this great climax.

Maria Zijlstra: The crashing of the cymbals...

JC de Jong: Yes! And there he's shouting and making big and unexpected gestures, and he is electrifying his audience. So this is sometimes called 'mesmerism'. You put a spell on your audience. And that's what he did. He needed an identification part in the beginning of his speeches, and when they trusted a little bit this strange man who had a strange voice, really, he spoke in a very special way. He had a rolling R that was something of his dialect, I think, and he pronounced it a little bit over-explicit. But, it was his own style, and he was capable of different things than other speakers, like, well, in his mellow voice and in a quiet space, and then one moment of thunder he raised his voice and made a big gesture. And people felt it, really, and they expected it already.

Maria Zijlstra: So, his speaking style became very personalised and extremely stylised, and very recognisable and very strong. And yet, right at the beginning, I'm still a bit perplexed at how it all began because he seems to have emerged then from being a quiet, reserved person into just suddenly becoming a public persona. That's odd, isn't it? Perhaps he'd already been practising in private in front of the mirror, because there are those photographic records, I understand, of Hitler rehearsing in front of mirrors.

JC de Jong: I think this is the case, really, yes. What many people don't know so much is that he really rehearsed, really a lot. And he didn't like to talk about it because, for an orator, it's important that the audience has the idea that he is a natural; that he just has to open his mouth to say important and beautiful words, but of course we know that he worked very hard on his speeches.

Maria Zijlstra: And he used silence too, you've mentioned, as a kind of personal magnetism; standing sometimes for a whole minute, building tension and expectation, before he even began speaking. Was he staring at people, or was he looking away?

JC de Jong: Looking away. But he did so much more than this because, well, he was one of the first who used really aeroplanes to move to different cities in a very short time to speak, as a pop star, as we say now, from one city to another in the same day. That was new. He used amplifiers so his voice was very strong and he could speak to thousands of people in one place. And he used buildings, as well. He made, for instance, in München he made big places where soldiers could march, where they could wait for the leader, and sometimes he came marching in through the crowd who were standing very still waiting for him, and there was lots of music used to give them already a special feeling. And he walked with many flags. And then the picture was complete when he stood before the people. He had small notes with him but they lay very low so it looked as though he spoke by heart. Only sometimes when the people were shouting 'Sieg Heil' or something, then you would see him watching his notes. And then really waited for one minute and he used this atmosphere, what I called 'mesmerising' earlier, he knew how to use his voice and to use pauses to give the audience the idea that this is really a special meeting. This is not somebody who is just presenting a message or some information, but he made sure that everybody was convinced that he was this message, and he was the leader, and he could shout and would whisper and he could use all these different voices to make one big music of voice.

Maria Zijlstra: An amazing performance and, I think you've pointed out that German politicians since then, and certainly contemporaneously as well, are very careful not to use any of those skills of oration; that they've kind of been cruelled in that country, whereas they may be used—some of those musical analogies that you've talked about—can be used by political figures elsewhere, perhaps in America, but certainly not in Germany, where politicians are very careful to make sure that they are much more reserved, much more still in their speaking habits.

JC de Jong: Yeah. Angela Merkel is an example. She is really reserved and quiet in her presentation and never shouting or something like this. She wants to make sure that there's nothing in her speech that reminds us of Hitler.

Maria Zijlstra: Are there public figures elsewhere, though, that you can think of who are perhaps less careful of the bad example of Hitler—or, in other ways a successful example, I suppose—who lean on those kinds of rhetorical or oratorial skills?

JC de Jong: Well, not in this extreme way, really, but I think some of the...how do you call this, these reverends on the television...

Maria Zijlstra: Oh, tele-evangelism.

JC de Jong: Yeah. They sometimes, they have this rhythm and this power of starting very low and slow, coming to a climax and making many repetitions, and after the climax there is another climax. They really know how to use music as well. Many times there is an organ or a band playing.

Maria Zijlstra: Yes, the swelling organ in the background.

JC de Jong: The swelling organ, yeah! So, well, it's not very common in Europe but I know that in America some of the reverends, the preachers, they use these techniques. And maybe in South America there are some Venezuelan presidents who do care to speak for many hours on the television—sometimes half a worker's day—to talk to their voters; sometimes making jokes and fun and sometimes screaming and shouting. But, well I'm not a specialist on all the speakers in the world, but Hitler was a special kind, I think.

Maria Zijlstra: Dr J.C. de Jong, lecturer in modern rhetoric and journalism at the University of Leiden in the Netherlands.

*****

Guests: Dr J.C. (Jaap) de Jong

Lecturer in modern rhetoric, as well as journalism, at the University of Leiden in the Netherlands.

Presenter: Maria Zijlstra

Sound Engineer: Angela Grant

Radio National often provides links to external websites to complement program information. While producers have taken care with all selections, we can neither endorse nor take final responsibility for the content of those sites.

<http://www.abc.net.au/rn/linguafra/stories/2010/2860824.htm#transcript>

---

Kevin MacDonald Being White in Public

April 2, 2010

A3P has been launched with high hopes in the future. The time is certainly right. There is excellent evidence that White people are very angry at the political system, especially middle class and working class Whites. These White people see the country being taken away from them politically and culturally.

A3P member distributes literature in California

A good example is the recent Health Care Bill where only 20% of Whites think it will help them, while overwhelming majorities of non-Whites believe it will help them. Polls indicate that most middle class and working class Whites believe (correctly) that the country is ruled by an elite of very wealthy people who created the financial disaster and are now benefiting from the government's bailouts. Middle and working class White people are increasingly alienated and angry because wealth is going to non-White minorities at the bottom of the socio-economic ladder.

These Whites see themselves standing in line for medical care with Blacks, Latinos, legal and illegal immigrants, and everyone else. And they realize that in general the taxes of people like themselves are being used to support services for people quite a bit unlike themselves — people who pay proportionately far less of the tax burden and are part of the coalition of minorities that is the backbone of the Democratic Party.

Indeed, White anger at the current system is getting to be obvious to everyone. Physical threats and vandalism directed against lawmakers in the wake of the Health Bill's passage have drawn the attention of the media and the political class. White rage has been a theme ever since Obama became president, but the temperature continues to rise. The Tea Party protestors are widely known as almost entirely White, and just recently the White militia movement has been in the news, especially in the liberal media where it is being heralded as a yet another sign that the people who are opposed to the system are uneducated, violent Whites.

The long term goal of A3P is to be seen as a viable alternative as the current system continues to collapse and as White voters become ever more alienated from the two major parties. Whites are already voting on the basis of their identity as Whites, not along the traditional social class lines. Around 60% of Whites are voting Republican and at least 90% of the Republican vote comes from Whites. Working class Whites are voting Republican.

Unfortunately, there is very little hope that the Republican Party will advance White interests in any tangible way. The Republican Party has long ceased to be even remotely conservative. Its foreign policy wing is dominated by neocons whose main allegiance is to Israel. Business interests, many supporting high levels of non-White immigration, have long ago knuckled under to the multi-cultural zeitgeist and actively subvert White interests in their hiring and promotion policies.

It's obvious we need a third party to represent White interests. The major problem is to overcome the stigma attached to anyone who explicitly advocates White interests. The mainstream media portrays Whites with a sense of racial identity as unintelligent, psychiatrically impaired, and morally bankrupt — at the same time that they encourage Blacks, Jews, and Latinos to have a strong sense of their own identity. This is a completely unnatural state of affairs — the result of a prolonged assault on the legitimacy of White identity by politically and ethnically motivated elites that have dominated public discourse on issues of race and ethnicity since before World War II and especially since the 1960s.

The A3P rejects labels such as "White supremacist" or "racist" that are routinely bestowed on assertions of white identity and interests as a means of muzzling their expression. Non-Western peoples throughout the world continue to seek political power, and they attempt to control their borders, establish their own cultures and defend their perceived interests. Having a sense of racial and ethnic identity should be seen as absolutely normal.

But it won't be easy. The cultural elites who dominate the United States will strenuously resist any change in the status quo. And the reality is that the vast majority of Whites have internalized the view that there is something deeply immoral about White people having a White identity and White interests. The hardest thing in the world for the vast majority of Whites would be to come out as openly and proudly White. Think to yourself how hard it would be to talk about it with your neighbors or the people you work with.

Because I have a very publicly visible job as a professor working in a bastion of the anti-White culture, I have had to put up with a lot of hostility, harassment, and ostracism. However, what you find out is that the more you do it, the easier it gets. This is the case especially if you can make intelligent replies in the teeth of their hostility. The argument for Whites having ethnic interests is a no-brainer: Everyone has ethnic interests. Why should Whites be the only people who have a moral imperative to give up political and cultural control?

And since many of the professors who have been harassing me are Jewish, I constantly stressed the point that the American Jewish community is deeply committed to its own ethnosestate in Israel. Why shouldn't I be allowed to want an ethnosestate for my people? And if the Jewish community is going to pose as a moral beacon of ethnic tolerance to the rest of humanity, why is Israel engaged in ethnic cleansing and seizing land from the Palestinians?

So it gets easier with time, especially if you are confident in what you are saying. And we in the A3P have every right to be confident and proud of what we are saying.

It seems to me that a short-range, inexpensive goal should be to organize as many people as possible in public displays of our ideas. Recently two A3P people manning a booth in San Juan Capistrano were harassed by a Latino gang. Vastly outnumbered, they had to withdraw.

I notice that the first principles of the Anti-Racist Action Network are:

* We go where they go: Whenever fascists are organizing or active in public, we're there. We don't believe in ignoring them or staying away from them. Never let the nazis have the street!

* We don't rely on the cops or courts to do our work for us: This doesn't mean we never go to court. But we must rely on ourselves to protect ourselves and stop the fascists.

These are the sort of people who successfully disrupted the American Renaissance conference in February of this year. From their point of view, this is very good strategy. White racial consciousness has been banned from the mainstream media. The ARA's tactics are meant to ensure that White racial consciousness has no public face at all by intimidating the legitimate expression of White racial consciousness in public. Quite obviously, they do not hesitate to do whatever it takes to achieve their goals.

We have to stand up to that. One reason I was attracted to A3P is that the young men who are the backbone of the party are willing to go into the public with their banners, their pamphlets and their good arguments. They are willing to be a public presence.

We can certainly expect that the path ahead will not be easy. We can expect that our opponents will cease at nothing to stop us. But with greater numbers, it will be very difficult to shut down public demonstrations by the A3P, and eventually the media will be forced to cover these events if only because a large scale confrontation of this type is newsworthy.

Being White in Public

Kevin MacDonald

March 30, 2010

<http://american3p.org/?p=464>

The Katyn massacre: A crime without punishment

Wednesday, April 7, 2010

By Jennifer Clibbon CBC News

Seventy years after the Katyn massacre, Russia and Poland have made a substantial effort to redress their enmity over a war crime committed during the opening stages of the Second World War. But there's still much left to discuss, historians say.

Prime Minister Vladimir Putin and his Polish counterpart, Donald Tusk, met in Russia on Wednesday to jointly commemorate the more than 20,000 Polish officers, police and others who were murdered by the Soviet secret police and buried in mass graves in the Katyn forest near Smolensk in 1940.

Russian Prime Minister Vladimir Putin and his Polish counterpart Donald Tusk take part in an event commemorating the 1940 Katyn massacre on April 17, 2010. (Reuters)

Until 1990, when then leader Mikhail Gorbachev first admitted the former Politburo's complicity, the Russians always blamed the Nazis for the murders. And this year was the first time a Russian leader publicly marked the anniversary.

However, in his speech at Katyn, Putin stopped short of a full and unqualified apology.

Instead, he explained the massacre as an act of "revenge" by the Soviets for the death of Red Army soldiers in Polish internment camps in 1920.

Anna Cienciala, professor emeritus at the University of Kansas, has spent her career chronicling the history of Poland during the Second World War and immediately after. As a 10-year-old, she fled war-torn Poland with her family. She recently co-edited a collection of documents from the Russian archives about Katyn, considered the definitive account of the massacre: "Katyn: A Crime Without Punishment."

Cienciala spoke with CBC News producer Jennifer Clibron about the significance of Putin's attendance at the anniversary ceremony and about why the discussion between Poland and Russia about Katyn is far from over.

Clibron: Why was it significant that Russian Prime Minister Vladimir Putin attended this 70th anniversary ceremony of the Katyn massacre?

Cienciala: It's very significant. No Russian prime minister attended the opening ceremonies at Polish war cemeteries in Katyn and Mednoye in 2000.

Anna Cienciala - University of Kansas

I suspect he wants to get something from the Polish government in return, but all I know is that after the ceremony — at which Putin spoke with great sympathy for the Poles, mentioning Russian victims of Stalin as well — he met in Smolensk with Tusk and members of the special committee for difficult questions in Polish-Russian relations.

What exactly was the Katyn massacre of 1940? It wasn't a single execution.

Katyn is the name of the forest where the Polish officers from Kozelsk Camp were executed.

When the execution sites of the POWs from Starobelsk and Ostashkov became known, and when it was known that 7,300 prisoners in NKVD [Stalin's security police] jails in west Belarus and western Ukraine were also shot, the Poles decided to give the name of Katyn to all the massacres.

How many Poles were executed and who comprised this group?

Of the 8,442 officers held in the three special NKVD camps in Feb. 1940, 2,336 were regulars, 5,456 were reservists and 650 were retired. Many of the reservists had higher education.

[There were also] 7,300 prisoners from jails that were shot in Ukraine and Belarus. But many POWs and jail prisoners are still unaccounted for.

The one woman we know of was Janina Lewandowska, a private pilot with the rank of cadet or lieutenant, depending on the source; she was evacuated east before Soviet invasion of eastern Poland and captured there.

She is known to have been first in Ostashkov, then Kozelsk camp (survivor memory). She is listed as shot at Katyn.

Did Winston Churchill and Franklin Roosevelt know about the massacre during the war?

Of course they knew, and they had info the Soviets had done it. The Germans publicized the Katyn massacre in mid-April 1941.

FDR and Churchill needed the Red Army to defeat the Germans in Europe, while FDR counted on Soviet help in defeating Japan afterwards.

The question is rather why the British and U.S. governments rejected requests for an international tribunal to investigate the Katyn massacre (the original one) and condemn the guilty ones, i.e. Stalin and company after the war.

I think they didn't want to spoil good relations with the USSR before the Cold War began in 1949, or exacerbate them later.

There was always something the British and U.S. governments wanted from Moscow that was more important than justice for the Poles.

An elderly man lights candles to the victims of the 1940 Katyn massacre in the Russian forest in 2007 - Reuters

The famous Polish director, Andrzej Wajda, whose own father was killed in the Katyn massacre, produced a powerful film about it a few years ago. What did that film contribute to popular knowledge about the massacre?

Wajda (whose father was in Starobelsk camp, shot in Kharkiv) says he made the film to tell the story to young Poles, who don't know the history and should know it.

The film was very popular in Poland. It had restricted showings in Russia, but was to be shown today on Russian TV at the same time as Putin and Tusk were meeting at Katyn.

You fled Poland during the war. Your father was as a high level official who escaped after the German and Soviet invasions. Might he have potentially been swept up in the arrests leading to the Katyn massacre?

My father, Andrew M. Cienciala (1901-1973) was the director of the Polish Maritime Agency, a ship chartering agency in Gdynia.

He was recruited into the Polish government when it was in South East Poland in mid-September 1939 and was evacuated with it to Romania when it was heard the Red Army was entering eastern Poland.

He would certainly have been arrested and shot or deported by the Soviets as "a socially dangerous element."

What do you recall of the invasion? You were 10 years old. I recall a Polish army unit coming stationing overnight in the park attached to the house on the small Polish estate we were staying in central Poland.

My father had sent my mother, sister, myself, also my grandmother and aunt to this place for summer holidays, mainly because he expected the Germans to occupy Gdynia in the first days of the war, as happened.

We were briefly machine gunned in the park by a German fighter plane, which had spotted the Polish troops.

I also remember artillery gunfire, heard for several days, from what I learned later was the biggest battle of the campaign, the battle of the Bzura River.

I was considering whether to shoot a German NCO coming up the drive — I had a discarded Polish army rifle — but my uncle caught me and took away the gun. Just as well, or I might not be here to write all this for you.

He came to find out whether we had any arms in the house. I told him "Lots and lots," thinking of the old blunderbusses on the walls. He came back next day with a few soldiers and they took everything away, including large kitchen knives.

Read more:

<http://www.cbc.ca/world/story/2010/04/07/f-katyn-massacre-interview.html>

James Petras

Major Jewish American Organizations Defend Israel's Humiliation of America

"The Government of Israel has insulted the Vice President of the United States, and spat in the face of the President ... they wiped the spit off their faces and smiled politely ... as the saying goes: when you spit in the face of a weakling, he pretends that it is raining" – Uri Avnery Israeli Jewish journalist 13/3/2010.

"We (Israel) possess several hundred atomic warheads and rockets ... most European capitals are targets of our air force ... the Palestinians should all be deported. Two years ago, only 7 or 8 per cent of Israelis were of the opinion that this would be the best solution, two months ago, (January 2010), it was 33 percent and now according to a Gallup poll, the figure is 44 percent". – Martin Van Creveld Israeli, professor of military history at Hebrew University at Jerusalem and top adviser to the Israeli Armed Forces, March 2, 2010.

Introduction

April 07, 2010 " When Israel announced a major new Jews-only building project of 1600 homes in occupied East Jerusalem, it was not only "spitting in the face" of visiting Vice President Biden, it was demonstrating its power to humiliate America and Americans. Netanyahu was sending a message to world: Israel backed by its billionaire-financed Presidents of the 51 Major American Jewish Organizations, leads the US by the nose. The Jewish State can make an agreement with the White House one day and revoke it the next (with characteristic arrogance), US public opinion be damned. No sooner did the Obama Administration react to this most public show of impudence with Biden privately telling the Israeli Prime Minister that, "What you're doing here undermines the security of our troops who are fighting in Iraq, Afghanistan and Pakistan. That endangers us and it endangers regional peace.", than Netanyahu openly called on the "American Jewish community" (the major Zionist organizations) to come to the defense of Israel and its claim on all of Jerusalem. And respond they did: turning the insulted victim (America) into the bully and blaming the US, not the Israeli government, for the "crisis" and for the breakdown of Israel's agreement not to expand colonial settlements on occupied Palestinian land. As we shall describe, the entire Zionist power configuration in the United States (with a few notable exceptions) defended Israel's effrontery and condemned any attempt by the US government to peacefully resolve a conflict, which threatened US lives, economic interests and prestige. This just confirmed world public opinion, which sees an American electorate willing to be humiliated by this economically insignificant state.

The Bigger Issue:

Beyond the Biden - Netanyahu Caper

Whatever the insults and crimes of the moment, the conflict between Israel and the US is not about Netanyahu's hyper-arrogance or a new series of Jerusalem land grabs, or even the frothy spittle on Vice President Biden's face. It is, in essence, about the relation between states or, better still, the relation between peoples where one group (Israeli Jews and their powerful one percent fifth column agents in the US) exacts tribute and imposes wars in its own interests on another group (the US tax payers, soldiers, workers and businessmen). It arrogates power, not merely yesterday or today, but for the last 50 years.

In a broader historic context, the public humiliation of Vice President Biden in Tel Aviv pales in comparison to the Israeli's cold blooded sneak attack, which killed and wounded over 200 American servicemen on the USS Liberty in June 1967. An arrogant and homicidal Israel humiliated the US through this attack, confident that then-President Lyndon Johnson would not retaliate but would even silence the survivors from ever telling their story to the American people. When Netanyahu calls on the "Jewish Communities" in the US he is not referring to the majority of American Jews. He, in fact, is addressing the Zionist power configuration whose strategically-placed members designed and promoted the Iraq war policy, which has caused the deaths and mutilation of thousands of US soldiers as well as over one million Iraqi civilians. In essence, the US soldier victims of the invasion of Iraq lost their lives, limbs and sanity for the interests of the Zionist "homeland".

It is not merely that American Zionists defend the illegal construction of another Jews-only neighborhood in the middle of Palestinian East Jerusalem; the announcement was calculated to humiliate the visiting US Vice President. It's not just a matter of US Zionist support for Netanyahu's sabotage of a US peace initiative; nor is it about the unconditional ZPC support for Israeli crimes as they were being denounced by the United Nations and the peoples of the world. The fundamental issue is that the ZPC in the United States is turning our country and its people into defenders of Israel's sordid crimes, casting the American people as accomplices to ethnic cleansing and degrading our moral sensibilities before the whole world.

Today and Yesterday:

Castrating America

Netanyahu's symbolic spitting in Biden's face was a calculated act of grave significance. It marked out Israel's 'will to power' - its willingness to publicly humiliate US leaders and flaunt its power over the US before the world. Israel exposed US impotence in the Middle East and beyond. This incident has world-historic consequences for anyone who is not blind. The US is a declining power, which cannot create a secure environment for its soldiers, corporations and citizens anywhere in the Middle East or beyond. No European, Asian, Latin American or Muslim country can look at the US and its citizens without thinking, "Here is a country at the feet of Israeli leaders and at the throat of Israel's designated 'enemies'. It is an understatement to say that the US, as a nation and as a people, has "lost prestige".

Israel has a long and ignoble history of sabotaging peace talks in favor of grabbing land. From its very foundation, Tel Aviv undermined peace offers through unprovoked military attacks. Israel, along with Britain and France, launched a full-scale surprise invasion of Egypt to grab the Suez Canal, after it had promised to consider Egyptian President Nasser's proposal to negotiate. In more recent times, as soon as Arafat agreed to formally recognize Israel as a state and sign a peace agreement, Jewish tanks and jets attacked the West Bank killing hundreds and surrounding Arafat's headquarters for months. At the same time it increased the number of the Jews-only settlements in the West Bank ten fold to accommodate over 500,000 fanatical paramilitary Jewish settlers. When the elected Hamas administration implemented a unilateral cease fire, Israel launched a major military assault, ultimately devastating Gaza and killing 1400 mostly unarmed Palestinians.

Israel's actions, past and present, including land grabs, Jews-only apartheid roads and settlements and military invasions of Palestinian refugee camps and towns have destroyed the possibility of a negotiated peace agreement, which would compromise the Zionists' vision of an ethnically-cleansed "Greater Israel".

Given this spiteful history, it is not surprising that Israel's current apologists claim that the current land grab to build more Jews-only apartment blocks in Jerusalem is "nothing new", that it is "part of our history", that Jews "need the living space" and that "three thousand years of Biblical history tells us that all this land is ours" (quotes from the Daily Alert, March 15 -17, 2010, official mouthpiece of the Conference of Presidents of the Major American Jewish Organizations).

The humiliation of Biden was not the first time that Israel acted publicly to embarrass the Obama Administration. In his first meeting with President Obama, Prime Minister Netanyahu openly rejected any freeze in new settlements. Indeed, Israel escalated its settlement building right after Obama addressed the Muslim-Arab world in his 'Cairo Speech'.

What is behind Netanyahu's perverse behavior and his US supporters' overweening arrogance? How can the US media, hundreds of Congressional Representatives and all the leading Jewish American organizations, support an extremist racist regime, which attacked and humiliated our country with impunity? How can the American Zionists side with a foreign country over issues detrimental to basic US security interests and not be viewed as traitors by other Americans?

In the first place, Netanyahu has the support of 80% of the Israeli-Jewish population as he pursues the policy of evicting the Palestinians and expanding exclusively Jewish settlements on occupied lands despite US President Obama's 'peace overtures'. Humiliating the visiting US Vice President on a 'peace mission' from Obama only increased Netanyahu's popularity with Israelis.

Secondly, this impudent projection of Israeli power over the reputed American 'superpower' appeals to the self-image of the far-right religious settlers whose leaders form the backbone of the current governing coalition (especially the Shas party).

Thirdly, insulting a gentle President and Vice President would find approval among the supporters of Netanyahu's gangster Foreign Minister, Avi Lieberman and with the tough Eastern European Hasidic youth who routinely spit on elderly Christian monks and priests in their ancient Armenian and Greek quarters of Jerusalem.

It might seem strange for Israelis, who face increasing isolation throughout the Middle East and are condemned throughout Europe for their brutal colonial crimes, to glorify their thuggish leader as he heaps contempt on their most important military ally and economic supporter, its elected leaders and its citizens. Accumulated Israeli political resentment against world condemnation for their war crimes found an emotional outlet by identifying with Netanyahu's antics: His relentless brutality against the 'Untermenschen' of Palestine and his willingness to openly defy the US Administration, even as Israel extracts $3 billion dollars a year from the Americans, re-enforces their sense of superiority. It is clear that Netanyahu's totalitarian policies have a mass popular base among Israelis and his swaggering arrogance faithfully reflects the national psyche of Israel.

Netanyahu and his ministers calculated that no matter how hard they squeeze the hapless US taxpayers, themselves caught in the a profound economic crisis, and no matter how often the Israelis threaten to provoke a wider regional war and cause more American soldier casualties, they can always count on the unconditional support of the Zionist Power Configuration in the US to promote Israel's interest. The entire US mass media applauded the Great Humiliator and even attacked the few American public figures as they (at least temporarily) defended American dignity against Israeli insults. The major Zionist leaders all rushed to support Israel's humiliation of the US and to denigrate its critics. An endless parade of US politicians, editorial writers, columnists, opinion-makers, "think" tankers, and TV commentators demonstrated their special loyalty to Israel against an American president who was timidly seeking a negotiated peace in the Middle East.

The recent 'conflict' between Israel and America over peace in the Middle East -brought on by a crude Israeli provocation - exposed far more profound issues: At the center of power in America, there is an influential group of power-brokers willing to exploit and humiliate the American people in the service of a foreign power. In the past, patriots would have called them 'traitors'.

Netanyahu's Hubris 'Rebuked'

In response to the official Washington show of anger, Netanyahu issued a half-hearted "explanation": The problem was not the policy of building new settlements in violation of their agreement with Washington; the problem was the timing of the announcement. It was a regrettable "error" by a minor functionary in the Israeli Interior Ministry who made his announcement right after US Vice President Biden had finished groveling at Netanyahu's feet and was busy pressuring the Palestinian Authority collaborators to rejoin the 'peace' charade sponsored by Washington. According to the Israeli media and their US mouthpieces it was a public relations breakdown, not a matter of strategic political and military significance affecting the US in the Middle East. In other words: With Biden out of Israel and collaborator Abbas back at the 'table', any announcement violating the "freeze on settlements" would be merely an Israeli "internal policy" and a "continuation of past practices".

Netanyahu Comes to Washington: Backhanders for Obama, Cheers from AIPAC

Netanyahu, fresh from spitting on Vice President Biden in Tel Aviv, administered a series of humiliating 'back-handed' slaps in the smiling face of President Obama, right under the glaring lights of the mass media in the US capital. Bibi Netanyahu delivered a rabble rousing speech to over 7,000 cheering Zionists at the annual AIPAC conference in Washington, DC. He asserted Israel's will to construct Jews-only housing throughout occupied Arab East Jerusalem and the West Bank, repeating Israel's illegal claim that Jerusalem was the undivided capital of the Jewish people. He then demanded and secured a two-hour meeting with Obama, despite his arrogant insult against the US Administration. Adding further humiliation to the already weak US President, the Israel government announced another Jews-only housing project in Arab East Jerusalem to be built on confiscated Palestinian property.

This announcement, just hours before the planned Bibi-Barack meeting, carried an additional threat that the White House charade of 'peace negotiations' would be put off the table if the Americans protested this new round of illegal construction. Netanyahu, demonstrating his utter contempt for the White House and the America people, went straight to the Zion-colonized US Congress and secured the House Majority leader Pelosi's 'unconditional support...' for Israeli expansion. And, as if to celebrate its victory and establish its own definition of 'peace', the Israeli military assassinated four un-armed Palestinians, two impoverished job-seekers and two young teenage protesters.

Loyalty to the Israeli masters was evident when thousands of Zionists fanatics jumped to their feet and cheered Bibi Netanyahu's crude repudiation of the American efforts to protect its soldiers' lives by promoting a peace initiative. Hillary Clinton's call for a 'peace settlement based on two states for two people' was met with dead silence. The entire Zionist-dominated media and all the leading Jewish organizations backed an unprecedented series of humiliations directed against the elected US Administration and the American people. Netanyahu's demagogic display of Israeli power over the US Congress and the American mass media and his crude willingness to degrade US political leaders in the nation's capital mocks the very notion of the American people having any voice in their nation's policies and subordinates America's military high command over issues of war and peace in the Middle East.

For Pelosi and the Zionized Congress, the thousands of campaign shekels from the AIPAC crowd to fund their re-elections are far more crucial to their careers than the lives and limbs of thousands of US soldiers lost to an agenda of Israel and its domestic Fifth Column.

Israel's Arrogance Prejudices US Interests

Israel's leaders not only raised their domestic prestige by undermining the US Administration's peace initiatives, they also managed to extract billions of dollars from the US taxpayers. The humiliation of the Obama regime derailed efforts by the Pentagon and the State Department to regain influence and credibility among the conservative Arab regimes, non-Arab Muslim nations and among hundred of millions of Muslims around the world. This humbling of the US Administration by a sneering Netanyahu further jeopardizes the work and security of American businessmen and officials operating in the Middle East and undermines relations with their Muslim and Arab counterparts. There will be major setbacks for the US in its efforts to gain support for its wars in the Middle East and South Asia and its propaganda campaign to discourage young Muslims from joining the anti-US resistance in Iraq, Afghanistan and Somalia. The symbolic image of Vice President wiping away

Israeli spittle during an official visit will encourage thousands of young Muslims to resist US occupation, which they view as promoting Israel's agenda. If an economically insignificant Israel state can defy the superpower, why can't they? The logic is simple: The greater the Israeli land-grab, the more submissive the Obama regime, the more extended and profound the hostility of the Muslim people against the Americans, the more emboldened the armed resistance movements and the greater the number of dead and maimed American soldiers stuck in wars promoted by the Zionists.

While the losses of American soldiers in the Middle East have never figured in Tel Aviv's policy moves, nor influenced the activities of its Fifth Column in the USA, these losses do affect millions of American families and over 200 million American taxpayers. Even an occasional American General finds the courage to point out that Israel's colonial dispossession of the Palestinian people has prolonged the war, tied up hundreds of thousands of US troops and undermined the capacity of the US armed forces to successfully operate on multiple fronts to promote US imperial interests.

When the head of the US Central Command (CENTCOM), General Petraeus' team of senior officers, identified "Israeli intransigence" as "jeopardizing US standing and the lives of American soldiers in the region (Middle East)" in a briefing before the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff on January 16, 2010, Petraeus met an onslaught of severe questioning from the ZPC. Chairman of the Joint Chiefs, Admiral Mullens received the same rebuke from the powerful Israel-Firsters. This was not the first time US military and security considerations were subsumed to Israel's agenda. Only two years earlier in 2007, the ZPC denounced and successfully buried the annual National Intelligence Estimate (NIE) prepared by 16 US military and civilian intelligence agencies, which had concluded that Iran was not developing nuclear weapons and did not pose a major threat to the US, in favor of Israeli disinformation arguing the opposite. And the same ZPC has been taking the Obama regime to task for daring to criticize Netanyahu.

Over 300 members of the US Congress signed an extraordinary letter supporting Israel against their own Administration, pledging their commitment to "the unbreakable bond that exists between [U.S.] and the State of Israel". Hundreds of congress men and officials joined the over 7,000 participants at the March 2010 AIPAC conference to cheer Netanyahu and witness the US Secretary of State Hilary Clinton hail the leader of the Israeli settler state - who had pledged "to continue building in all of Jerusalem just as it does in Tel Aviv".

General David Petraeus, whose senior officers had expressed his concern about Israel's policies undermining US military interests to Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Admiral Mullins, was no match for the AIPAC. The CENTCOM commander contacted his Israeli counterpart General Gabi Ashkenazi to repudiate his own criticism of Israeli policies and, in effect, pledge his unconditional support to the Jewish state even when it jeopardizes US troops.

In January, General Petraeus correctly identified how Israeli intransigence had damaged US interests and operations in the Middle East, infuriated Arabs and ultimately increased attacks on American troops. But in March, the politically ambitious General hastened to retract his briefing before the Joint Chiefs of Staff. There are few more cravenly disloyal spectacles in US military history than this bemaled American general prostrating himself for the Zionist lobby.

And yet, for a brief moment, a few desperate anti-Zionists leftists, looked to General Petraeus and Admiral Mullen as potential allies against Israeli-Zionist control of US policy in the Middle East. They ignored the fact that these are the commanders in charge of the US invasion and occupation of Iraq and Afghanistan and were preparing to confront Iran. Petraeus' difference with Israel was over specific policies as they undermined the smooth operations of the US war machine in the Middle East and his 'recantation' before the Israelis has certainly thrown cold water of this romantic fantasy of a 'nationalist' US General.

The tradition of 'civilian supremacy' in the US ensures that the military will never confront the issue of Zionist control over the Congress and White House. Petraeus' briefing will be soon forgotten and the General's subsequent repudiation is an eloquent example of the grotesquely opportunistic nature of the American high military command.

When civilian leaders point out how Israel's oppression of 5 million Palestinians jeopardizes American lives and interests in the Middle East, the Zionist power configuration deflects attention from Israel and blames the US (and its 'permissive' society) for having instigated the growing Islamist movement, Arab hostility and attacks. When American military leaders, strategists and intelligence officers assert that Israel's policy toward the Palestinians is a leading cause of regional conflict based on their decades of field expertise, the arm-chair Generals among the Zionists re-interpret this straightforward identification of Israeli policy with attacks on American interests and troops as "another point of view". In the meantime the ZPC rounds up the usual Congressional or White House Israel Firsters to "disown" their own military.

Israel's narrowly conceived colonial policy, the eviction of massive numbers of Palestinians and the land grabs to construct Jews-only colonial settlements, undermines US authority in the Middle East among its allies. Israel's brazen willingness and ability to openly bash President Obama, thoroughly discredits the contention among liberal Zionist apologists like Noam Chomsky that Imperial Washington is "in command" of Western policy in the Middle East and is acting on behalf of much broader Euro-American interests.

In a wider context, Israel's arrogance damages attempts by US private investors to broker oil deals for multi-national corporations. Arab oil countries, which see themselves as threatened by a regional militarist power like Israel, with its colonial expansion and hegemonic ambitions, are unlikely to cooperate with the American, especially when the superpower is impotent to curb Israel's worst excesses. Israeli Colonial Ambitions and US Strategic Interests

For Israel and its Fifth Column backers none of the US strategic concerns are as important as the Jewish state's colonial conquests and its regional projections of power. Nor are the interests of the American people given much consideration when they come in conflict with Israeli expansionist colonial goals. The ZPC never considers or even discusses the fact that Americans have suffered major losses as a result of Israel's relentless pursuit of military-driven power in the Middle East.

Israel's primary goal of grabbing land and dispossessing Palestinians goes against the post-colonial ethos of the American people, who experience increased hostility overseas. The only beneficiaries of Israel colonial expansion are the small but powerful 51 American Jewish Zionist organizations which identify with and are loyal to the Israeli state.

Israel's unilateral military aggression and threats against neighboring countries, including Palestine, Syria, Lebanon, Iran and its cross-border covert assassinations, most recently in Dubai, are of great importance to Israeli militarists as Israel projects power in the Middle East. The self-esteem of Israel's militarized citizens is directly linked to their policy of aggression and assassinations without regard to national sovereignty. On the other hand, Israeli power projections have undermined the US efforts to diplomatically expand its own sphere of influence and negotiate multi-billion dollar military sales, trade and investment agreements in the Middle East. The fact that Israeli policies have jeopardized millions of jobs for American workers is an issue of no importance to the Jewish state and its affluent Israel First backers in the US.

Israel's invasion of Lebanon forced the pro-US Harari faction to form a coalition with the anti-imperialist Hezbollah political-military movement. Israel's attempt to impose its will on Lebanon through its bombing campaign, torpedoed US diplomatic and political efforts to consolidate its influence with President Harari.

Netanyahu's successful bullying of Obama and Biden simply reinforced the ties between the pro-Western Lebanese and the anti-colonial Muslim left, in the face of Washington's incapacity to constrain the Israeli 'wildmen' or resist the 'internal rot' eroding an independent American initiative: Better to join forces with Hezbollah, which after all fought Israel to a standstill in 2006.

Israel's loyal accomplices in the US government have caused enormous damage to the US economy and threaten even greater loss of American lives, as the Israel seeks to direct US policy toward Iran. Under the forceful and aggressive direction of Israel Firsters and the powerful Treasury Undersecretary for Terrorism and Financial Intelligence, Stuart Levey, every major US oil and gas company, bank, petroleum exploration and drilling firms and countless other business concerns have given up hundreds of billion dollars in lucrative economic trade and investment deals in the interest of Israel, which has extracted over $60 billion dollars of US taxpayer money and handouts and aid during the last decade.

Iran, which backed the US imperial attacks on Afghanistan and Iraq, provided the US military with far more strategic assistance than all the Israeli advisers, 'experts' and contracted 'interrogators' in Baghdad and Iraqi 'Kurdistan' put together. Despite the US recognition of Iranian assistance in Iraq and Afghanistan, Iran is demonized as 'the enemy' by Israeli agents within the US because Tehran opposes Israel's ethnic cleansing of the Palestinians. Israel's Fifth Column churns out hundreds of articles a month demanding brutal economic sanctions against Iran and a pre-emptive military blitz aimed at destroying the Iranian economy and a nation of over 70 million. Every US military commander in the Middle East has acknowledged that an attack on Iran will expand the war, cut vital shipping of oil in the Persian Gulf plunging the world economy into recession, and threaten the lives of scores of thousands of American soldiers. They also are aware that the prospect of thousands of American casualties would not deter the 51 Presidents of the Major American Jewish Organizations, the AIPAC-controlled US Congress members, or the likes of Undersecretary of Treasury Stuart Levey from promoting or provoking a war with Iran. The leading Israel-First advocates for war with Iran are unconcerned with the inevitable thousands of US military casualties and the millions of American jobs lost, as they promote the expansion and supremacy of "Greater Israel" in all its arrogance and glory throughout the Middle East.

Zionist Power Configuration: How Dare You Resist Humiliation!

Is it any wonder that, when visiting American leaders are openly insulted by the racist regime of Prime Minister 'Bibi' Netanyahu, American Zionists automatically side with Israel and condemn those who protest in defense of American dignity?

The Daily Alert, principle bulletin of the Conference of Presidents of Major American Jewish Organizations, provides a useful compilation of the articles, editorials and government documents, defending Israel against the US Administration's efforts to seek diplomatic solutions. From March 15 - 19, 2010 the Israeli-ZPC juggernaut released a remarkable propaganda offensive, vividly underscoring the immense power of the Zionist power configuration in the US. As soon as the White House publicly rebuked Prime Minister Netanyahu for insulting Vice President Biden during his official visit to Israel, the Zionist power configuration, claiming to speak for all the "Jewish communities", came out in defense of Israel and attacked the Obama Administration. A barrage of articles, editorials and press conferences materialized overnight, with the usual parade of zombie-like Congressional mouthpieces parrotting the Zionist line and applying direct pressure on the White House.

This multi-prong Zionist offensive, under Netanyahu's direction, was successful in persuading the White House to return to its characteristic belly-crawl: Clinton, Biden and the rest of their gang retreated, reasserting the US "unconditional defense of Israel", declaring the 'non-existence' of the crisis and asserting the 'rock solid' American relation with Israel. The chain of command is revealing: The Israeli state orders the Zionist power configuration into action; the mass media disseminates the line; Congress marches lock-step for the Zionists and the White House retreats. Delighted with their success, Zionist propagandists roll out their own polls claiming the US public support for Israel -- a public saturated with Israeli manufactured and American Zionist trumpeted propaganda. Clearly what such "polls" measure is the effectiveness of a monolithic mass media campaign.

The propaganda tactics utilized in this blitzkrieg media campaign involved placing blame on the insulted victim and attacking "the Administration for sparking a full blown crisis" (Wall Street Journal, March 14, 2010). It went on to denounce the US Administration officials for "condemning" and "pushing" Israel (Washington Post, March 15 - 19, 2010). Other publications accused President Obama of 'playing into the hand' of Arab extremists and "fanning the flames" (Fox News and Christian Science Monitor, March 18, 2010). It was the US President, who had been "hindering the peace talks" by "encouraging Palestinian intransigence". Haaretz, the Israeli's liberal newspaper, which has published articles critical of the Israeli Occupation, released a series of articles, opinion pieces and editorials by 'experts' and 'military strategists' accusing the US Administration of "orchestrating the crises" (March 14, 2010) and called for the Israeli government not to 'grovel' by apologizing to the US Vice President (March 15). CBS claimed that "Obama was pushing the US-Israeli alliance to the brink" (March 15). And on March 17, the Boston Globe accused Obama of "aggravating Israel's mistake". AIPAC methodically contacted its usual Congressional flunkies to denounce the White House for rebuking the Israeli government.

By March 19, the Washington Post had published over a dozen diatribes calling for US acceptance of Israel's settlement expansion. Zionist think tanks and front groups with deceptive names, like the Foundation for the Defense of Democracies, blamed the displaced Palestinians for sabotaging "the peace process" by protesting the accelerated Israeli land confiscation and settlements (Scripps - Howard and Fox News, March 18, 2010). Predictably, the New York Times provided a slightly liberal gloss by calling for reconciliation and an end to the crises, while never mentioning the public Israeli humiliation of Vice President Biden or considering how Israel's latest grab of Palestinian neighborhoods in East Jerusalem might endanger US lives and interests. The Times ignored General Petraeus testimony before Congress and his briefing, critical of Israeli policy, before the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, while giving prominence to Netanyahu's "peace talks" (March 18, 2010).

A few fissures have appeared in the pro-Israel monolith: David Axelrod, Obama's chief adviser, condemned Netanyahu's provocation as an "insult"; New York Times top columnist, Thomas Friedman, described the Israeli leaders as "drunken drivers"; and a leading US rabbi called for a building freeze in Jerusalem. These few liberal Zionist critics were overwhelmed by scores parrotting ZPC 'talking points': Bronner and Sanger of the New York Times, Walter Mead of American (SIC) Interest and Goldberg of the New Yorker, among others.

The craven capitulation, led by Secretary of State Hillary Clinton, was inevitable. On March 16 Secretary Clinton declared that, "we have an absolute commitment to Israel's security. We have a close unshakeable bond between the United States and Israel and between the American and Israeli people". To prove her fealty to Israeli and Zionist interests, Clinton became featured speaker at the APAC Conference, March 21 - 26, 2010, sharing the platform with a triumphant Bibi Netanyahu.

Conclusion

Israel had to openly humiliate the US as a show of its power. Given Israel's strategic domination of the US political system and the ZPC control over mass media and their enormous wealth, a Zionist-controlled administration, like Obama's, would have to capitulate. Israeli and US Zionist pressure forced the American leaders to subordinate their international image and national self-respect and accept the unlimited expansion of Jews-only settlements in the West Bank and East Jerusalem, no matter how this might undermine US standing in the region and jeopardize US troops. By 'whipping' the Obama Administration into line, Israel has set the stage for the launching of its top priority: Forcing a direct US military confrontation with Iran in Israel's strategic interests. It is clear that the entire ZPC will stand with Israel as it promotes its militarist agenda against Iran, regardless of the consequences to the United States. It has been proven beyond a doubt by the recent events, that the ZPC has the ultimate say with the Obama Administration, against the advice of top US military officials and against the basic interests of the American people. In plain English, we are a people colonized and directed by a small, extremist and militarist 'ally' which operates through domestic proxies, who, under any other circumstance, would be openly denounced as traitors.

Can the ZPC be defeated? They are the "most powerful lobby in Washington", to whom Presidents, Administration officials, Generals and Congress people must submit or risk having their careers ruined and being ousted from public office. Meanwhile, outside of the United States, the international community openly despises Israel as a brutal, racist colonial state, a war criminal and chronic violator of human rights and international law. The Middle East Quartet, made up of the United States, the European Union, Russia and the United Nations, has condemned Israel's plan to build another 1,600 homes exclusively for Jewish extremist settlers in Arab East Jerusalem. The Quartet demanded "the speedy creation of a Palestinian state and the end to provocative actions". But the 'Quartet' is powerless to stop Israeli plans. The Presidents of the Major American Jewish Organizations tell their followers that global "anti-Semitism" motivates the 'Quartet'. The huge AIPAC "Hail Israel" Conference in Washington D.C. in late March celebrated the triumph of unfettered Israeli expansionism.

Nevertheless, some Israelis are beginning to express unease. After their initial euphoria over Netanyahu's slap-down of Biden and face-up to Clinton, there is growing fear of Israeli being 'weaned' away from the American treasury and losing their unfettered access to the US latest military technology. A poll published on March 19 in Yedroth Ahronoth, one of Israel's biggest dailies, revealed that 46% of their readers responded that the government should freeze settlement building in East Jerusalem, much to the chagrin of the US Israel Firsters, who might in other circumstances, have labeled these Jews anti-Semites. Fissures in the Zionist monolith are beginning to appear. These would deepen if and when the American public realizes that Israel's dispossession of Palestinians is raising havoc with American lives and with American interests in a vital part of the world populated by 1.5 billion Muslim. As more issues arise, the critical choice between following the lead of the ZPC in pledging unconditional allegiance to Israel and enduring its provocations and humiliations, or standing up for the dignity, basic interests and integrity of America, will have to be made. More fissures will appear and the AIPAC and other members of the ZPC will be seen for what they are: Swagging bullies acting on behalf of a foreign power.

<http://www.atlanticfreepress.com/news/1/12993--the-major-jewish-american-organizations-defend-israels-humiliation-of-america.html>

What Does Holocaust Denial Really Mean?

by Daniel McGowan / February 17th, 2009

In April 2007 the European Union agreed to set jail sentences up to three years for those who deny or trivialize the Holocaust.<sup>1</sup>

More recently, in response to the remarks of Bishop Richard Williamson, the Pope has proclaimed that Holocaust denial is "intolerable and altogether unacceptable."

But what does Holocaust denial really mean? Begin with the word Holocaust. The Holocaust (spelled with a capital H) refers to the killing of six million Jews by the Nazis during World War II.<sup>2</sup>

It is supposed to be the Germans' "Final Solution" to the Jewish problem. Much of the systematic extermination was to have taken place in concentration camps by shooting, gassing, and burning alive innocent Jewish victims of the Third Reich.

People like Germar Rudolf, Ernst Zündel, and Bishop Williamson who do not believe this account and who dare to say so in public are reviled as bigots, anti-Semites, racists, and worse. Their alternate historical scenarios are not termed simply revisionist, but are demeaned as Holocaust denial. Rudolf and Zündel were shipped to Germany where they were tried, convicted, and sentenced to three and five years, respectively. Williamson may not be far behind.

Politicians deride Holocaust revisionist papers and conferences as "beyond the pale of international discourse and acceptable behavior."<sup>3</sup>

Non-Zionist Jews who participate in such revisionism, like Rabbi Dovid Weiss of the Neturei Karta, are denounced as "self-haters" and are shunned and spat upon.

Even Professor Norman Finkelstein, whose parents were both Holocaust survivors and who wrote the book, The Holocaust Industry, has been branded a Holocaust denier.

But putting aside the virile hate directed against those who question the veracity of the typical Holocaust narrative, what is it that these people believe and say at the risk of imprisonment and bodily harm? For most Holocaust revisionists or deniers if you prefer, their arguments boil down to three simple contentions:

1. Hitler's "Final Solution" was intended to be ethnic cleansing, not extermination.
2. There were no homicidal gas chambers used by the Third Reich.
3. There were fewer than 6 million Jews killed of the 55 million who died in WWII.

Are these revisionist contentions so odious as to cause those who believe them to be reviled, beaten, and imprisoned? More importantly, is it possible that revisionist contentions are true, or even partially true, and that they are despised because they contradict the story of the Holocaust, a story which has been elevated to the level of a religion in hundreds of films, memorials, museums, and docu-dramas?

Is it sacrilegious to ask, "If Hitler was intent on extermination, how did Elie Wiesel, his father, and two of his sisters survive the worst period of incarceration at Auschwitz?" Wiesel claims that people were thrown alive into burning pits, yet even the Israeli-trained guides at Auschwitz refute this claim.

Is it really "beyond international discourse" to question the efficacy and the forensic evidence of homicidal gas chambers? If other myths, like making soap from human fat, have been dismissed as Allied war propaganda, why is it "unacceptable behavior" to ask if the gas chamber at Dachau was not reconstructed by the Americans because no other homicidal gas chamber could be found and used as evidence at the Nuremberg trials?

For more than fifty years Jewish scholars have spent hundreds of millions of dollars to document each Jewish victim of the Nazi Holocaust. The Nazis were German, obsessed with paperwork and record-keeping. Yet only 3 million names have been collected and many of them died of natural causes. So why is it heresy to doubt that fewer than 6 million Jews were murdered in the Second World War?

"Holocaust Denial" might be no more eccentric or no more criminal than claiming the earth is flat, except that the Holocaust itself has been used as the sword and shield in the quest to build a Jewish state between the Mediterranean Sea and the Jordan River, where even today over half the population is not Jewish.

The Holocaust narrative allows Yad Vashem, the finest Holocaust museum in the world, to repeat the mantra of "Never Forget" while it sits on Arab lands stolen from Ein Karem and overlooking the unmarked graves of Palestinians massacred by Jewish terrorists at Deir Yassin.

It allows Elie Wiesel to boast of having worked for these same terrorists (as a journalist, not a fighter) while refusing to acknowledge, let alone apologize for, the war crimes his employer committed. It makes Jews the ultimate victim no matter how they dispossess or dehumanize or ethnically cleanse indigenous Palestinian people.

The Holocaust story eliminates any comparison of Ketziot or Gaza to the concentration camps they indeed are. It memorializes the resistance of Jews in the ghettos of Europe while steadfastly denying any comparison with the resistance of Palestinians in Hebron and throughout the West Bank. It allows claims that this year's Hanukah Massacre in Gaza, with a kill ratio of 100 to one, was a "proportionate response" to Palestinian resistance to unending occupation.

The Holocaust is used to silence critics of Israel in what the Jewish scholar, Marc Ellis, has called the ecumenical deal: you Christians look the other way while we bludgeon the Palestinians and build our Jewish state and we won't remind you that Hitler was a good Catholic, a confirmed "soldier of Christ," long before he was a bad Nazi.

The Holocaust narrative of systematic, industrialized extermination was an important neo-conservative tool to drive the United States into Iraq. The same neo-con ideologues, like Norman Podoretz, routinely compare Ahmadinejad to Hitler and Nazism with Islamofascism with the intent of driving us into Iran. The title of the recent Israeli conference at Yad Vashem made this crystal clear: "Holocaust Denial: Paving the Way to Genocide."

"Remember the Holocaust" will be the battle cry of the next great clash of good (Judeo/Christian values) and evil (radical Islamic aggression) and those who question it must be demonized if not burned at the stake.

1. Associated Press, "EU approves criminal measures against Holocaust denial," Haaretz, 19 April 2007. [e]
2. Holocaust. Dictionary.com. The American Heritage® New Dictionary of Cultural Literacy, Third Edition. Houghton Mifflin Company, 2005. [e]
3. Statements of Senator Hillary Clinton. [e]

Daniel McGowan is a Professor Emeritus at Hobart and William Smith Colleges. Because of admonishment by the administration, it is hereby stated that the below remarks are solely those of the author. Hobart and William Smith Colleges neither condone nor condemn these opinions. Furthermore, the author has been instructed to use his personal email address of mcgowandaniel@yahoo.com and not his college email at mcgowan@hws.edu for those wishing to contact him with comments or criticisms. Read other articles by Daniel, or visit Daniel's website.
<http://dissidentvoice.org/2009/02/what-does-holocaust-denial-really-mean/>